Robert Williams of Roxbury, and his Descendants.

BY EDWARD H. WILLIAMS, JR., OF BETHLEHEM, PENN.

THE following is an attempt at the early family record of Robert Williams, of Roxbury, a record that has proved puzzling to all who attempted to unravel its intricacies. The author of the "Williams Family" (1847), gave him a brother Nicholas; two wives, Elizabeth Stratton and Martha Strong; four children, Samuel, Isaac, Stephen and Thomas, and two unknown grandchildren, (named in his will) Deborah Totman and Elizabeth Robinson. A coat of arms was attributed to him, and a probability expressed that he came from an ancient family of WILLIAMS, of Flint, named by Thoresby (Ducatus Leodiensis), though no attempt was made to trace his ancestry, beyond citing a family tradition that he came from Norwich, England.

Savage (Genealogical Dictionary) adds a wife Margaret, widow of John Fearing of Hingham, Mass., and children, Mary, wife of Nicholas Wood (on the assurance of Mr. Clap), and John (from the record of his death, intestate, and the possible entry in the Roxbury church record, where a daughter Elizabeth is admitted to membership), though he notes that the parent may be Robert rather than John. He doubts the existence of wife Martha and son Thomas, as no mention of them occurs in any of the Roxbury records. He also doubts the age attributed to the first wife Elizabeth Stratton, and this doubt will present itself to each one who compares her age, as given by the record, with the dates of the births of her three youngest children, and with the age of Robert as given later on.

W. H. Whitmore (American genealogist) notices the book of 1847, above given, and states that the right to use the coat of arms is not proven. Others have touched upon various branches of the family in magazine articles, pamphlets, and one small book ; but, with the exception of the brochure of Mr. Weld French, nothing has been added to the facts noted above.

After nearly a quarter of a century of interest in the subject, the following seems to have been the status of the first four generations of the family of Robert Williams. As a history of the steps by which the facts have been obtained would be too extended for a magazine article, a mere skeleton of the record will be given. The data will be discussed in the forthcoming family record. As one or two of the statements here made are not yet fully proven, this article aims to draw attention to them, so that their defects may be rectified, or the statements themselves disproved.

1. ROBERT¹ WILLIAMS seems to have been born in England in 1608 (Embarkation record and the record of Rev. William Williams, of Hatfield, agree on this point). He was a "Cordwynar" of Norwich Co., Norfolk, England, for at least a short time before sailing, April 8, 1637, in the "John & Dorethy of Ipswich," Wm. Andrews, Master, "Fornewengland to Inhabitt." It is probable that he came of the extensive family of the name near Norwich, which reaches back to a considerable antiquity, and which has probably given others of the name to New England. His first wife, Elizabeth Stalhan, may also have come from the neighborhood, as similar records have been found. She died at Roxbury, Mass., July 28, 1674, "aged 80 years." Robert Williams married, second, at Hingham, Mass., Nov. 3, 1675, Margaret, widow of John Fearing of Hingham. She died at Roxbury, Dec. 22, 1690. The third wife, Martha Strong, or Story, is either a myth, or he married Martha, widow of Deacon William Parke, as the dates of death and the ages of the two Marthas are identical. The first supposition is more probable. Robert did not bring his brother Nicholas with him, but did bring four children, Elizabeth, Deborah, John and Samuel, and two servants, Mary Williams, aged 18 years, and Anne Williams, aged 15 years. Mary was the second wife of Nicholas Wood, before mentioned, and Anne was probably his third wife and survived him. (See his will.) Robert Williams died at Roxbury, Sept. 1, 1693, aged 86. Nicholas Williams died there Aug. 27, 1692.

After a study of Thoresby, Burke, and other writers on the English gentry, the conclusion is forced that Mr. Whitmore was right in his comment, and that the coat of arms in the work of 1847 belongs to the family of MATHEW, and did so belong before the origin of the "Ancient family of Williams or Flint." Sir George Williams took the arms of MATHEW with the name, as is commonly the case; but, even if the coat were that of Williams, there is nothing to show that Robert was of the Flint family. The chances are that he will be found to have belonged to as ancient a family near Norwich, as has been stated. As searches are now being made, and as the matter is still in embryo, nothing will be said regarding what has already been proved from wills and records in England. The children were all by the first wife. They were:

2. I. Elizabeth², b. in England;
3. II. Deborah², b. in England;
- III. John², b. in England; d. at Roxbury, Oct. 6, 1658, unmarried and intestate;
4. IV. Samuel², b. in England, 1632;
5. V. Isaac², b. at Roxbury, Sept. 1, 1638;
6. VI. Stephen², b. at Roxbury, Nov. 8, 1640;
- VII. Thomas². Probably authentic, from similarity of name to many in England. Date of birth and death unknown. Family tradition states that he died in youth.

2. ELIZABETH² WILLIAMS. Admitted to the church at Roxbury in 1644. She was the mother of Elizabeth Robinson, as none of the other children could have been the parent of that grandchild. Elizabeth Robinson was probably the wife of Wm. Robinson of Concord-Newton-Watertown. Jonathan Robinson, son of the above, left a copy of the will of Richard Cutter among his papers, endorsed "For the two Robinson grandchildren of the deceased," which seems to show that Elizabeth Robinson was the daughter of Richard Cutter of Cambridge. Richard Cutter had two wives, and a daughter Elizabeth by each. Bond gives a date of death of the first one; but the "Cutter Family" a later publication, says that the date of her death is unknown. There have been instances of the same name having been given to a second child when the first of the name was living. If Bond be right in saying that Mary, daughter of Jonathan and Mary (French) Hyde, was the wife of Nathaniel Hammond, there were two Marys in the family alive at the same time, as the Supreme Court records show that Mary, wife of Eleazer Williams, was daughter of Jonathan Hyde by his second wife Mary, daughter of John Rediat. The two cases will be exactly parallel. If, therefore, Elizabeth Robinson, above, be the daughter of Richard Cutter, she must have been by the first wife, as the second Elizabeth was but two years old at the date of birth of the eldest Robinson child, and the first wife of Richard must have been Elizabeth Williams, daughter of Robert. They were married in 1644. Elizabeth² died at Cambridge, March 5, 1662. Her age was unknown, but given as "about 42," which would make her older than her husband, who died June 16, 1693, "about 72." Children:

7. I. Elizabeth³, b. July 15, 1645;
- II. Samuel³, b. Jan. 3, 1647; d. unmarried;
- III. Thomas³, b. July 19, 1648; according to one account he "died soon"; to another he married Abigail ———, had 4 ch. and d. prob. 1693;
8. IV. William³, b. Feb. 22, 1650;

- 9. V. Ephraim³, b. 1651;
- 10. VI. Gershom³, b. June, 1653;
- VII. Mary³, (or Marah.)

3. DEBORAH² WILLIAMS married in the early part of 1648, John Turner of Roxbury, next-door-neighbor, but one, to her father, as his second wife. Their first child was born and their first two children were baptized at Roxbury. They probably removed to Medfield in 1649, as they are found at that place as original proprietors in the next year. Part of their Roxbury estate was sold to Deacon William Parke of Roxbury. Deborah² died at Medfield in 1676, and John in 1705, having previously married a third wife named Alice. Children :

- 11. I. Deborah³, baptized Jan. 14, 1649;

- 16. VII. Abigail³, b. 1667;

4. SAMUEL² WILLIAMS, shoemaker, deacon, etc., lived at Roxbury; married March 2, 1654, Theoda, eldest daughter of Deacon William and Martha (Holgrave) Parke, of Roxbury, and sister of Martha, who married his brother Isaac. Theoda was born July 26, 1637, and, after the death of Samuel², Sept. 28, 1698, married Stephen Peck (not Park, as given by Savage; see gravestone at Roxbury, and Sewall's diary for note of her funeral), and died August 2, 1718. Children :

- I. Elizabeth³, b. Feb. 1; d. March 10, 1655;

5. ISAAC² WILLIAMS ; weaver, captain, deacon, etc., at Newton, Mass., married Martha Parke, mentioned before, 1660. She was b. March 2, 1642, and d. at Newton, Oct. 24, 1674, whither they removed immediately after marriage, and settled on 500 acres purchased by her father from Major Samuel Shepard. Isaac married second, Nov. 13, 1677, Judith, daughter of Peter and Elizabeth (Smith) Hunt of Rehoboth, and widow of Nathaniel, son of Thomas Cooper of the same, by whom she had had three children. She died in 1724, and Isaac², Feb. 11, 1707. Children :

29. VIII. Elizabeth³, b. Oct. 8, 1671 (twin.)

IX. Thomas³, born Dec. 23, 1673. Jackson says that he sold, 1708, his part of his father's estate ;

but East Cambridge records do not show this to be a fact. As he did not join in the protest to his father's will, and as he is not mentioned in it, he probably died before his father. There was, however, a Thomas Williams at Newton, later, who by wife Lydia (Child) had a daughter Lydia, b. July 22, 1754. It may have been his son.

Children by the second wife :

- I. Peter³, b. August 31, 1680 ; d. unmarried, 1732 ;
- 30. II. Sarah³, b. Oct. 2, 1688 ;
